What does it mean to you?

To us, this theme represents the blossoming of something new, it is the recognition that every beginning is the ending of something else. Through our theme, we hope to invite reflection on the maturation of ideas and disciplines, highlighting challenges like bureaucratization and the loss of alternative perspectives (e.g. ground-breaking research or perhaps new technologies that are able to paint our world in a different light).

On a personal level, the theme encourages creative submissions about self-reflection, academic growth, and psychological development, offering a broad exploration of individual and collective growth, perhaps even transformation. We would be very interested in papers that explore questions like: How have I changed since I started studying? How do I take care of my elders? How can I characterize the time I now live in? Do I have a stable narrative identity?

dream unburdened,

running water,

swelling blood beneath my skin.

the mountain is a ladder is a system

but moving boxes stand soaking up Merlot.

my sister calls me fit for it which kills me and I know nothing

if language is a game then what is this?

the more I learn the more I feel like falling running water, sweet Merlot, come catch me!!

I'm liquid smooth, a game that's fit for mountains,
until they settle like a flock of birds in boxes

I fold and unfold, dream unburdened, surely not?
the mountain is a ladder but who am
